(By Covington Hall.)

Sons of the brave on kingship's a A million deep you lie:
A million deep you heroes sleep Beneath Right's clearing sky!

A thousand nations come: A wakened race takes up its mace, Loud rolls Truth's battle-drum.

The peace you sought, for which you Is dawning over earth; The vision dreamed, by you, has a lis light on every hearth.

From serfdom's grooves the whole wed From slav'ry breaks away— All empires shakes—all Islam wakes, All China stirs today!

The Persians rise, and India's eyes are fixed on Freedom's star. Through the night of earth, a light is flashing swift and far!

North, South, East, West, in every be A glowing spirit flames— At last' At last' Man leaves the past, His heritage he claims!

From land to land a challenge grand
The priest and master hears.
The crashing stones of falling throng
Make music for our cheers'

Man' Man' Man' Man' Shakes off the The curse that held him down.
The races rise, with soul-flushed eyes.
Democracy to crown.

Well done! Well done! The fight's weaking of the slave! Well done! The fight is well honor to the brave!
